LOYOLA OPEN CAMP IN DEFENSE OF TITLE

Loyola College Warriors open football training camp on Monday to prep for defense of the CCIFC Eastern section crown. They won the section title last year with a perfect 6 - 0 record before bowing to Waterloo-Lutheran in the play-offs.

Head Coach, George Dixon, is expecting a turnout of more than 65 candidates for the 2 week camp. Rugged two a day practices are scheduled as the Warriors train for a controlled scrimmage vs St. Lawrence University and the important non-league encounter against the McGill Redmen.

The team will be housed for the first time in the excellent Hingston Hall Residence facilities that were used earlier in the summer by the Alouettes.

Assisting Dixon with the squad will be his fine staff headed by Coaches Tony Pajaczkowski, Judd Porter and Pete Regimbald

New students entering Loyola and any returning students wanting to join the team should report to the Athletic Department no later than Thursday of this week. Dixon stated, "all positions are open and we especially want to encourage entering freshmen to turn out for the camp".

Only six of the eleven Loyola players who dominated the eastern section of the CCIFC All-Star team are returning. Four of the five are defensive specialists safety Joe Manzoli, linebacker - John Cawsey, end - Brian Marcil and tackle Bob Miele.
